

1 General

The House Rules define the rights and obligations of visitors during their stay on the premises, in the event halls and event rooms and any extended areas of the house rights (hereinafter referred to as the 'Venue') of the venues operated by D.LIVE GmbH & Co. KG (hereinafter referred to as 'D.LIVE'). The territorial scope of these House Rules shall also apply to extended areas of house rights. The respective organiser and D.LIVE shall monitor compliance with the obligations towards the event visitors.

2 Admission control

Admission to the Venue for public events is only permitted for visitors with a valid ticket or guests of the organiser. All persons entering the venue are obligated to present, and upon request hand over for validation, their ticket or access authorisation to the control and security service as well as officials working for the police or other regulatory agency.

The agencies specified above are also entitled to inspect articles of clothing and carried containers in order to identify and secure prohibited articles on a random sampling basis and without grounds for suspicion. Anyone refusing to consent to a search of their person can be refused admission to the premises or expelled from the Venue if found there.

Tickets authorise attendance exclusively to the events for which they were given. Visitors are to take the place specified on the ticket for the respective event and only use the entrances designated for it. Leaving the Venue will cause the ticket to become invalid. Any misuse can lead to loss of the ticket and immediate expulsion from the Venue. Ticket scalping can be reported to the police.

The general terms and conditions for tickets of the respective organiser shall otherwise apply.
